dictive vetoes of the president.

The republican congress has met the problems presented by the administration's unpreparedness for peace. It has repealed the greater part of the vexatious war legislation. It has enacted a transportation act making possible the rehabilitation of the railroad systems of the country, the operation of which, under the present democratic administration, has present democratic administration, has been wastefull, extravagant and inefficient in the highest degree. The transportation act made provision for the peaceful settlement of wage disputes, partially nulli-fied, however, by the president's delay in appointing the wage board created by the act. We condemn the democratic administration for failure impertially to enforce the anti-profiteering laws enacted by the republican congress.

Railroads

We are opposed to government owner-ship and operation or employe opera-tion of the railroads. In the view of the condition prevailing in the country and the conclusions which may be fairly drawn from an observation of the transportation systems of other countries, i it clear that adequate transportation service both for the present and future can be furnished more certainly, eco-nomically through private ownership and operation under proper regulation and there is no work for them in rendering the service of transportation; but in order to do justice to the capital already invested in railway enterprises to restore railway credit to induce future investments at a reasonable rate and to furnish enlarged facilities to meet the requirements of the constantly increasing development and distribution a fair return upon actual value of the railway House. property used in transportation should be made reasonably sure, and at the same time to provide constant employment to those engaged in transportation service with fair hours and favorabl eworking conditions at wages or compensation at least equal to those prevailing in similar ines of industry.

We endorse the transportation act of 1920 enacted by the republican congress as a most conservative legislative achievement.
